FEATURES IN TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY WORLD Sir Horace Plunkett on the Irish Question

(Exclusive Statement to The World.)

At the request of The World the following statement of his views on the present aspect of the Irish question was made by Sir Horace Plunkett:

"The time has come when something must be done. Ireland cannot get into the Peace Conference, but the Irishquestion cannot be left out. can be no doubt as to the urgent demand of the British people as well as of the Irish for a settlement. There should be made at once a firm offer of a reasonable measure of self-government. This would not be a final settlement, but out of it will come in due season, from the only possible source, a United Ireland, the proper atmosphere for a lasting reconciliation.

"The apparent bad faith of the Government in withholding the concession of self-government is undoubtedly the cause of the recrudescence of historic hatred which had almost disappeared.

"The Irish question must be settled, and settled soon. That is the dictate of prudence as well as of justice. To British statesmen I say, settle this Irish question-settle it now, with the materials at your hand. Do your part and we
